

Breaking Down Barriers to Effective K-12 Leadership

MAEC has learned that lasting change in schools depends on strong leadership at every level. Parents, teachers, staff, school administrators, and district administrators all play a part.

After our 30+ years in the field, we have learned that school communities can succeed when these elements are in place:

Resources 	Leadership & Support 	Organization & Culture
Funding and people-power is necessary to prioritize systems-wide change. MAEC's services offered through federal grants are free to school districts in certain states, removing the cost barrier for many communities.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• District buy-in and follow-through• Leadership teams that reflect the students and families that they serve• Clear understanding and assessment of how school policies and practices affect students and families differently	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Consistent policy implementation• Accountability• Ongoing, relevant professional development for educators• Culture that does not perpetuate fear of retaliation
